We have several processes that we do that sets our Full Spectrum CBD Oil apart from other companies CBD oil and products which include 1st and most important is your selection in genetics. We have used the Cannatonic varieties since 2011, which are medicinal CBD strains that express indica dominant medicinal traits. Most hemp strains are sativa dominant strains, so this really sets our genetics apart from others. 2nd is our cold extraction process that preserves the cannabinoids and terpenes in their natural acid form as they occur on the plant. 3rd is whole plant drying and proper curing to emphasize the medicinal terpenes present in the hemp flower. There are several other things that we do to make our products the most effective CBD supplements available on the market, but these are the top 3.
